

Hey there, I'm Beverly, a self-taught watercolor artist based in Williamsville, NY. I have always had a fascination with birds and their beauty, which is why they are a central theme in most of my artwork. As a retired individual, I have finally found the time to fully immerse myself in my passion for painting and creating. Watercolor is my preferred medium as it allows me to capture the delicate details and vibrant colors of my feathered subjects. Through my art, I hope to bring a sense of peace and tranquility to the viewer, just as nature does for me.
